ABOUT

Faculty of Physical Education for Boys

Faculty of Physical Education for Boys in Alexandria dates back to 1955, when a decision was issued to establish an institute for physical education in Abu Qir, it would be under the supervision of the Ministry of Education, and it would include two departments: the higher department and the intermediate department. Since that date, the institute has witnessed a great academic and construction development until it became what it is now.

The Faculty of Physical Education for Boys in Abu Qir is considered one of the leading educational institutions in the field of physical education in the Arab Republic of Egypt. For nearly fifty years, it has contributed to the advancement of the educational process by preparing distinguished qualified cadres who have shouldered the burden of raising, educating and training successive generations of this Dear homeland.

In 1975, Helwan University was established to replace the Ministry of Higher Education in supervising higher institutes. Thus, the regulations of Egyptian universities began to be applied to these institutes and changed their name to faculties. So, the Institute of Physical Education in Abu Qir was called the Faculty of Physical Education for Boys - Abu Qir - Helwan University, and in 3 September 1989, a republican decree was issued to join the four faculties of Helwan University in Alexandria to Alexandria University, so the name of the Faculty of Physical Education-Abu Qir-Helwan University was changed to the Faculty of Physical Education for Boys - Alexandria University as of this date.

In 2002, Decision of the Minister of Higher Education No. (320) dated 10/3/2002 was issued approving the issuance of the internal regulations for the Faculty of Physical Education for Boys in Abu Qir, which aims to: Preparing specialists in the field of physical education to work in various community institutions in one of the following areas:
