Alexandria Centre for Maritime Archaeology & Underwater Culture Heritage (CMAUCH)

About CMAUCH

The Alexandria Centre for Maritime Archaeology and Underwater Culture Heritage (CMAUCH) was established in 2009, as a European Union project under the EU-Tempus III Program.

The project aimed to create a specialised centre for postgraduate studies which provides education and training at different levels in aspects of maritime and underwater archaeology, and to develop a Postgraduate Diploma and Master programs in Maritime Archaeology for graduates from different backgrounds, designed and structured in accordance with EU standards.

Our Mission

To provide quality education in aspects of Maritime Archaeology aiming to contribute the exploration, preservation and presentation of Underwater Cultural Heritage.

Education

We provide graduates from different backgrounds with a sound theoretical and methodological foundation in the investigation, interpretation and management of maritime and underwater archaeological resources within its wider context.

Exploration, Preservation & Presentation

We carry out various projects and activities focusing on investigating maritime and underwater archaeological sites in Egypt, as well as raising public awareness through outreach projects, public lectures, workshops and more.

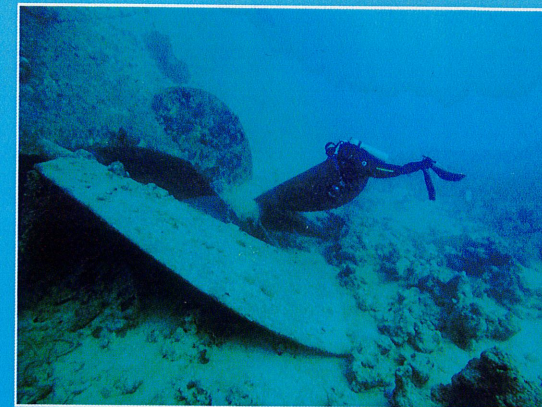

Research Projects

- The Marsa Bagoush Underwater Project
- Wrecks at Risk: managing submerged cultural heritage in the Red Sea Archaeology
- The Maritime Archaeology Outreach Project

International Affiliations

The CMUCH is affiliated with a number of international organisation in the field of Underwater Culture Heritage including:

- UNESCO UNITWIN Network for UCH
